FIVE COMPANIES REACH DENISON

NEGRO ABDUCTED FROM CHAIN GANG; FATE IS UNKNOWN

A small party of men, unmasked, but said to have been wearing goggles, Wednesday morning seized Will Sibley, negro, from the custody of a guard who was working him on the streets, and drove away to parts unknown in an automobile.

At 3:30 Wednesday afternoon no word of the negro's fate had been obtained by either city or county officers working on the case.

The negro was convicted of vagrancy, and fined $200. In police court Monday morning, after evidence was presented that he had been found in a downtown rooming house with a white woman.

The negro's abductors are believed to have taken him southward from near the corner of Eighth and Austin, where the capture was enacted, toward Clay county. Whether it was their plan to administer a flogging or to do worse, was a matter of conjecture Wednesday afternoon.

Information regarding the seizure was obtained with difficulty. The only witness was "Shorty" Gamble, special officer in charge of the negro, and Gamble failed to observe the appearance or number of the white men, the size, make or number of their car, the direction from which they came, or the direction in which they took the negro.

A note reading "Turn the negro over to bearer. (Signed) McDonald" was presented to Gamble by one of the men. Night Chief R. L. McDonald denied that he wrote the note or knew anything about it.

The party which seized Sibley is thought by officers to have numbered four, of whom two actually took the negro, the others remaining in the machine.

It was the first day that Sibley had been put to work, Police Commissioner Fitts keeping him in jail for two days after his conviction on account of fears of rough treatment. Wednesday morning the negro was put to work, guarded by Gamble; the latter was armed.

Sibley was tried Monday morning in police court on a charge of vagrancy an dwas fined the limit, $200. Officers testified that they found the negro in a downtown rooming house with a white woman.

The negro was cruelly scared during his brief trial, being hardly able to speak distinctly, and trembling like a leaf.

The woman, arrested at the same time, was also fined $200, which she paid. She is understood to have left the city Tuesday.

After the negro's conviction Police Commissioner Fitts gave instructions that the prisoner be worked on the streets with a ball and chain on him. These instructions were not carried out until Wednesday. The kidnapers took ball, chain and all

Up to 2 p. m. Wednesday the only trace of the kidnapers came from a man who said that he had seen an Essex car, containing four white men and a small negro man, headed towards Holliday creek on the Henrietta road.

The seizure took place shortly after 9 o'clock, but the police did not learn of it for about an hour. Another hour elapsed before Gamble could be located.

WOMAN AND TWO SONS HELD RESULT SHOOTING OF GIRL

CLIMAX TO SENSATIONAL DIVORCE SUIT FILED LAST NOVEMBER

HUSBAND OF WOMAN ONCE DEMPSEY MANAGER

Girl Named as Corespondent by Her Sister, the Accused

NEW YORK, July 26—Miss Bertha Katz, named as co-respondent in a separation suit filed last November by her sister, Mrs. John J Reisler, against "John, the Barber," was shot three times and fatally wounded today in her Brooklyn bedroom. Police arrested Mrs Reisler and her two sons, Morris and George, and the slain woman's brother, Max Katz, charging each of them with homicide.

After rushing Miss Katz to a hospital, detectives who said they found her sister, brother and nephew in a room adjoining the bed chamber, took all of them to the death bed where, the detectives declared, the dying woman identified Morris Reisler as the one who shot her. Her sister, Mrs Reisler, the police alleged, declared that she and not her son did the shooting.

"I hope she dies—if she don't I'll choke—I have been waiting a long time to get her," he quited Mrs. Reisler as saying on the trip to the hospital.

Mrs Reisler's husband, formerly a Harlem barber, now an automobile supplies salesman, was once manager for Jack Dempsey, it is said.

Screams of Mrs. Jennie Katz, mother of Mrs Reisler and the slain woman, aroused neighbors, when the shots were fired, and they called the police. The police said Mrs. Katz informed them that "Morris did it" and that Mrs. Reisler, upon hearing these words, turned to her mother and said:

"You lie."

The police report finding a revolver in Mrs. Reisler's possession but had the suspicion that she was trying to shield her son Morris

The elder Reisler—well known in sporting circles, visited the home of Miss Katz last night, the police said, and from there went to a police station and asked that she be protected against violence. A detective accompanied him back to her home, but returned to headquarters in the belief that his presence at the Katz apartment was unnecessary.

Miss Katz, it was said, had been cashier in Reisler's barber shop and police said they were told he had given her money so that she might attend a business school

The Reislers were married 27 years ago. The police said Mrs Reisler accused her husband of having been intimate with her sister for the past 15 years.

The lock on the hall entrance into the Katz apartment had been forced and the door broken open Police said George Reisler and Max Katz admitted having broken in the door.

Informed that her sister had died, Mrs Reisler said, according to the police

"Good. I'm glad of it."

In her complaint for a separation last fall Mrs Reisler said that while her husband was riding around in his automobile with her sister she was compelled to "ruin her eyesight by making head bags for her neighbors to buy bread for her children."

Culberson in the recent democratic primary election, late last night conceded the defeat of his candidate and announced that he had offered his services to former Governor James E Ferguson, who will be in the runoff with Earle Mayfield, high man, on August 28. Mr. Ferguson has accepted the offer and Mr. Miller is expected to take the stump for him within a few days.

Mr. Miller was himself defeated in Saturday's primary in his race for renomination to the state legislature. The telegram from Mr Miller follows.

The property order issued yesterday established a preferential system for shipment of fuel and food over all railroads east of the Mississippi Another mandate going into effect at the same time today directs all the roads of the country to disregard established routings in favor of such routing as would expedite movement and avoid congestion.

Producing operators and railroad traffic experts today awaited word from President Harding to set in motion the machinery for emergency control. The president was expected to formally establish the directing agency for the scheme by the appointment of a presidential committe of representatives from the interstate commerce commission and the departments of comorce justice and interior with Secretary Hoover as chairman.

CONSTITUTES HUGE JOKE SAYS MINERS' PRESIDENT

NEW YORK, July 26 —Importation of British mined bituminous coal to avert a fuel famine among American industries "is so apparently futile and absurd as to constitute a huge joke," John L Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, asserted today

"They tell me 500,000 tons of coal already has been contracted for at the mines in Wales," he said, "enough to keep the miners of America digging just two and one-half hours on a day of average production.

"When it is realized that the normal coal requirements of this country are 8,000,000 tons a week, while the utmost unloading capacity of all docks on the America seacoast is less than 25,000,000 tons a year, it becomes apparent how farcial are attempts to break the miners' strike with a foreign fuel"

MONTREAL REPORTS INDICATE WALKOUT 40,000 INVOLVED

PEACE IN RAILWAY STRIKE SEEMS A REMOTE POSSIBILITY

NO FURTHER SPREAD IN UNITED STATES EXPECTED

No Report on Progress in Effort to Form Separate Agreements

CHICAGO, July 26 - With the government assuming control of freight traffic from midnight last night the eastern railroads continuing their efforts to form new unions of shopmen and collections from Montreal that a walkout of 40,000 Canadian shopmen had been authorized peace in the railway strike seemed a remote possibility. On the other hand, good will was apparent in the meetings being held at Baltimore between officials of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad and representatives of the shopmen, which have been regarded as a possible precursor to other individual settlements if successful.

No further spread of the strike was looked for, although 50 maintenance of way men at Shawnee, Okla., and a number at Moberly, Mo., quit work yesterday because armed guards are patrolling railroad property in those cities. A resolution adopted by representatives of nearly 300 general chairmen of the clerks and freight handlers union after their meeting here yesterday declared they would resort to their "economic power" if their grievances are not adjusted, but it was believed they would take no further strike action pending negotiations

Plans have been perfected for delivering mail by motor truck at least once a day to every community in upper Michigan and South Dakota and Minnesota comprising the tenth railway mail district. Motor trucks are already being used in portions of Wisconsin, Michigan and North Dakota to carry mail and freight.

Curtailment of train service during the last 24 hours was negligible

In Chicago preparations were being made to substitute oil as fuel in the event of a shortage of coal as a result of the combined rail and coal strikes

Reports of violence or threatened violence were slightly increased and troops were called out in three new states, while in Montana the Great Northern railroad was promised protection of United States deputy marshals at Havre and Wolf Point, where protection had been asked and any other points where the need might arise.

Denison, Texas, was placed under martial law at 5 o'clock this morning by Governor Neff Three companies of Alabama state troops were mobilized at Birmingham Kentucky state troops were ordered to Fonde near Jellico Ky Tenn

Reports from Kingsville, Texas, said two non-union workers had been attacked and beaten by a number of strikers

A special deputy sheriff guarding the shops of the Seaboard Air Line at Jacksonville, Fla, was shot through the leg by unidentified men.

In Richmond Va, a temporary injunction was granted to the Chesapeake and Ohio railway and a similar one to the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac railway restraining strikers from placing more than one picket at a point and from interfering with employes or property of the companies

Governor Stephens of California in a message to President Harding called attention to a possible shortage of refrigeration cars for transporting fruits

RESUME DISCUSSION OF A SEPARATE AGREEMENT

BALTIMORE, July 26 - While none of the men representing the management and striking shopmen of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad would comment on the situation prior to resuming their conference today there was no attempt to conceal their cheerfulness. Inquirers for an expression of opinion were simply referred to the brief official communique issued at the close of yesterday's meeting which stated that the time was devoted to "a general discussion of the wage reduction and the various rules and working conditions handed down by the labor board" that no conclusions were reached and that the discussion was harmonious

Neither would the conferees comment on the opposition toward the conference of the national union officers who take the stand that the railroad shopmen must stand or fall as a unit and that no separate agreement with any railroad was proper or possible

The railroad company was represented as acting entirely alone in the matter, one high official, who

LABOR COMMISSIONER TENDERS RESIGNATION RESULT TROOP ORDER

DENISON, TEXAS, July 26.—Joseph S. Myers, state labor commissioner, has wired his resignation to Governor Neff, he announced today. He did not state the reason for his action, but friends of Mr. Myers said that the labor commissioner's dissatisfaction with the governor's order sending troops to Denison was responsible for his action.

Mr. Myers has been conferring with leaders of the strike for two days. It is said that the shopmen will petition Governor Neff not to consider Mr. Myers' resignation.

DENISON, TEXAS July 26—Five companies of the 142nd regiment of infantry, Texas national guard, dropped here this morning to carry into effect the governor's proclamation placing military rule over the railroad zone in Denison. They arrived on a special train from Austin. Colonel C W Simon of Gainesville assumed command of the battalion upon its arrival.

The troops, travel worn and weary, marched from the M. K & T yards where they detrained, to Forest park, where a camp will be laid out. Mess call sounded soon after and the hungry militiamen fell in for "chow."

Picket lines were drawn out at once.

Without protest strikers moved their picket lines back 1,000 feet from the railroad property, the boundary of military control

Texas rangers who have been on guard duty here are under orders to proceed to Childress and Sherman, in which cities certain railroad districts have been placed under operation of the "open port" law by Governor Neff. The "open port" law is designed to keep open traffic lanes in Texas and the rangers are under instructions to see that rail property and workmen in these cities are not molested

Rangers also will be sent to Cleburne, Temple, Amarillo Marshall Lufkin, Kingsville, De Leon, Waco and other places where state protection is deemed necessary

Troops Only Out Camp.

But a few persons witnessed the troops detrain. Shopmen on strike, who had offered their services, were put to work laying out a camp in the park.

A second group of nonunion workers reached Denison this morning from the north. Under the guard of rangers and deputies they were taken to the Katy "bunk houses" near the locomotive shops. There was no demonstration. A consignment of negro laborers arrived late last night

The military zone as established by the governor takes in two blocks of the central business district and cuts through the residential districts of the north and south of Denison. Pedestrian and vehicular traffic will be unmolested, Colonel Simon said today. Groups of persons will not be permitted to gather within the military zone he added. Otherwise the life of the city will be unmolested

The deputy United States marshals will be used to patrol outlying sections of the railroad property, Randolph Bryant United States district attorney, announced. The deputies will guard the Red river bridge and Ray yards. Two companies of rangers will remain here for general patrol duty, assisting the militia and deputies. The rangers who will patrol Frisco property in Sherman will operate with Denison as headquarters

C N Whitehead, chief operating officer of the Katy road, who arrived here last night, stated that the strike "so far as the shopmen on the Katy are concerned is lost." He

CHARGES RAILROAD OFFICIALS ATTEMPT TO PUT 'ONE OVER'

CHICAGO July 26—Railroad officials of the entire country are attempting to put "one over" on the public, John Scott secretary-treasurer of the railway employes department of the American Federation of Labor, charged today.

He denied their claims that transportation is normal, that 50,000 coal cars are ready for Secretary Hoover and the interstate commerce commission, that strikers in the east are going to western railroads and working under assumed names while western strikers are working in the east and that 60.6 per cent of the normal shop crafts forces are working

"It's all a big bluff" declared Secretary Scott. "There is just about as much truth in it as there was in some railroads' reports that only five per cent of their men walked out when in reality the strike was 100 per cent effective."

MAINTENANCE MEN THREATEN A STRIKE; CHARGE VIOLATIONS

OBJECT TO EFFORT TO FORM COMPANY ORGANIZATIONS

ALSO PROTEST USE OF GUARDS BY THE ROADS

Claim Lives of Workers Are Imperiled by Promiscuous Shooting

DETROIT July 26 A threat that the 400,000 maintenance men employed on the nation's railroads will go on strike because of alleged action of certain eastern roads in attempting to form company organizations to take the place of international railroad brotherhoods and the action of guards employed by the railroads was made here today at headquarters of the International Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes and Railway Shop Laborers.

E F Grable president of the union, is in Chicago conferring with the United States railroad labor board, and is prepared to demand, it was stated authoritatively here today, that certain practices of the railroads be abandoned Unless grievances of the maintenance men are settled, it was stated at union headquarters here, a strike is inevitable

The brotherhood officials here charge the Lehigh Valley and Delaware, Lackawanna and Western and other eastern railroads are attempting to organize company unions to take the place of the present labor organizations. They also protest against use of guards by the railroads They assert lives of railroad employes who remain at work are imperiled by promiscuous shooting on the part of guards charged with protecting railroad property during the shopmen's strike. Specific instances cited are those in Saginaw Mich, and at Tucumcari, N M. Fifty maintenance men quit work in the Pere Marquette shops at Saginaw yesterday saying they feared they would be wounded owing to careless handling of firearms by the guards.

BANKERS URGED TO EXTEND FACILITIES IN BOND EXCHANGE

NOTIFIED NATION'S SHORT DATED DEBT MUST BE REFUNDED

PRESENTS A PROBLEM OF FIRST IMPORTANCE

Provide for Exchange of Victory Notes for New Issue of Treasury Notes

DALLAS, July 26.—The secretary of the treasury announces an issue of gold notes bearing four and one-quarter per cent interest dated August 1, maturing September 15, 1926. These notes can be purchased for cash or by credit by special depositories; also exchangeable for Victory four and three-quarter per cent notes. Subscriptions can be placed through local banking institutions or with federal reserve bank direct. Subscription books are now open.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Banking institutions were called upon today by Secretary Mellon to extend their facilities for the exchange of outstanding 4¾ per cent Victory notes for the new 4¼ per cent treasury notes offered as part of the federal program for refunding the short dated debt.

In a letter to bankers, the treasury secretary explained that approximately 14,500,000,000 of the nation's short dated debt must be refunded.

"The refunding of this debt," he said, "most of which will have to be accomplished within the next 16 months, presents a problem of first importance. The $300,000,000 or thereabouts of treasury notes offered for subscription on the usual terms will provide for the treasury certificates maturing August 1 and for the treasury's remaining cash requirements between now and September 15, 1922, while the offering to allot additional notes in exchange for 4¾ per cent victory notes should accomplish the refunding of some more of the Victory-Liberty loan and correspondingly reduce the amount of Victory notes to be provided for upon redemption or maturity. At the same time the call for the redemption of about half of the outstanding Victory notes will make that much of these payable on December 15 of this year, and enable the treasury to deal with it before maturity. This will mean by January 1, 1923, outstanding Victory notes will have been reduced to about $1,000,000,000."

Mr. Mellon stated that by June 30, 1922, the gross public debt had been reduced to about $22,963,000,000, a reduction of about $1,062,000,000 during the past fourteen months. He declared the treasury through its refunding operations has distributed about $2,250,000,000 of early maturing debts into treasury notes falling due in 1924, 1925 and 1926.

"As a result of these operations," he said, "the amount of outstanding Victory notes has been reduced from over $4,050,000,000 on April 30, 1921, to about $1,990,000,000 on June 30, 1922, and the amount of outstanding treasury certificates from over $2,800,000,000 to about $1,825,000,000. In addition there are about $825,000,000 of war saving certificates of the series of 1918 which become payable on January 1, 1923, so that on June 30, 1922, there still remained outstanding about $4,440,000,000 of short dated debt, maturing in the current fiscal year."

MINISTRY OF BAVARIA IS GIVEN A MAJORITY VOTE OF CONFIDENCE

By Associated Press.

MUNICH, July 26.—After today's debate in the diet on Bavarian's position with respect to enforcement of the national law for the defense of the republic, the ministry of Premier Lerchenfeld was given a majority vote of confidence by the deputies of the Bavarian people's party, the Bavarian peasants' league and the Bavarian middle party.

Premier Lerchenfeld, speaking in the landtag, said the Bavarian government was prepared to grant everything to maintain the present German constitution.

He said the extensive unrest in Bavaria was due to fear that autonomy gradually is being lost and that Bavaria was sinking to the level of a mere province.

WILSON DOES NOT APPROVE VARDEMAN FOR SENATE PLACE

JACKSON, MISS., July 26.—In answer to a query relative to what he thinks of former Senator James K. Vardaman, who is a candidate for United States senator, Dr. James F. McCaleb of Carlisle, Claiborne county, recently received a reply from former President Woodrow Wilson asserting that he thought Mr. Vardaman "thoroughly false and untrustworthy."

Mr. Wilson's letter follows:

"Washington, D. C., July 8, 1922.

"My Dear Mr. McCaleb:

"I have your letter of July 5. In reply let me say that I am not in a position to review Mr. Vardaman's record in Washington in detail, but I can sum up my impression of him in a single sentence:

"I think that he is thoroughly false and untrustworthy, and that it would be a great detriment to Mississippi and the nation if he should be returned to the senate.

"With deep interest in the outcome of the contest of which you speak,

"Sincerely yours,

"Woodrow Wilson."

Mr. Vardaman is one of the three candidates for the seat occupied by John Sharp Williams, who will retire soon, having said he would "rather be a dog and bay at the moon than serve longer."

WHISKEY DISTILLERS TO "DECLARE WAR" ON THE ENFORCEMENT OFFICERS

LOUISVILLE, KY., July 26.—Whiskey distillers from the entire country assembled today to "declare war" upon the national prohibition enforcement officers, according to statements of their attorneys. Support in opposing the regulations of whiskey withdrawals from warehouses to be used for medicinal purposes will come from the American Medical association, it is claimed, and in the recent protest to Commissioner Haynes of the National Association of Retail Druggists.

LIVING COSTS HIGHER BY 66.6 PER CENT THAN DECEMBER 1913

WASHINGTON, July 26.—While living costs generally in the United States were 23 per cent lower last month than in June, 1920, and two-tenths of one per cent lower than in March this year, they were 66.6 per cent higher than in December, 1913, the bureau of labor statistics of the department of labor announced today.

Food prices showed an upward trend from March to June the figures revealed, but were offset by declines in clothing, fuel, light, furniture and miscellaneous necessities, while housing remained stationary.

SENATOR OVERMAN DENIES REPUBLICAN CLAIM OF ECONOMY

MAKES COMPARISON OF THE PAST AND PRESENT APPROPRIATIONS

ONLY CAMOUFLAGE AND PIPE DREAMS, HE SAYS

Appropriations for 1922 Are $563,0000,000 More Than Wilson Administration

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Republican claims of economy in federal appropriations and expenditures were denied by Senator Overman of North Carolina, ranking democrat of the senate appropriations committee, in a statement today in the senate comparing present and past appropriations.

"All the big headlines which have been appearing in the newspapers showing the great savings made by the budget system under the Harding administration were nothing but camouflage and pipe dreams," said Senator Overman, referring to recent statements by Chairman Warren and Madden of the senate and house appropriation committees, respectively.

Appropriations under the republican administration for the present year were $.36,000,000 more than those under the Wilson administration in 1916 for actual running expenses of the government, excluding war time obligations, according to comparisons presented by Senator Overman. He said it was more fair to compare the 1922-23 appropriations with the peace time period of 1915 than to make the comparison with appropriations of last year as was done by the republican committee chairman.

"It is true as stated by Senator Warren," said Senator Overman, "that the appropriations for the fiscal year 1923 are $319,000,000 less than 1922, but by analyzing this statement it is found that a greater part of it was on account of a saving by congress in decreasing the army and the navy and by charging the good roads item to the postal appropriations—all of which are necessary reforms brought about by peace."

Excluding from the present appropriations all war aftermath major expense, Senator Overman said that for "the legitimate expense of the government this year appropriations were $1,329,000,000 as against $793,000,000 for 1916."

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Royalties received from the production of oil and gas on government leased lands are now running around half a million dollars a month and for the last fiscal year aggregated $5,766,507, it was announced today by the bureau of mines. INTENSE HEAT LEAVES MARK ON THE FIELDS

VERNON, TEXAS, July 26.—Intense heat of the past week has left its mark upon Wilbarger county fields but a majority of the farmers are of the opinion that cotton has suffered no material damage. Plants everywhere have a wilted appearance, but each morning finds them much rejuvenated by the night's dew. It is thought that a good shower will provide the requisite moisture.

Prospects continue bright for one of the most momentous cotton crops in the history of the county. Feed and all row crops are appearing to splendid advantage as well.

The Little Young Ladies Are Not To Be Outdone; They Can Entertain Guests and Have Their Parties Too

The "little young ladies" are not to be outdone. They can entertain guests and have parties, too, and do it very beautifully, as one of the ideal younger very sub-debutante groups is proving this week.

One of the inspirations for the social activity among the little girls is the presence of four attractive young visitors in their midst. These four are Margaret Walker of Bryan, little niece of Mrs. Laura T. Burts, who is spending the summer with her; Margaret and Katherine Eaton of Graham, who are the guests of Miss Amelia Miller, and Milly Dinkle of Marshall, who will spend two more weeks with Miss Isabel Stone. A little guest in the home of Katheryn Weeks who shared the pleasures of the younger group for a few days went home last week. Other visitors are expected throughout the last month of vacation.

The young visitors are enjoying family parties and picnics and swims informally, as well as movie line parties, birthday parties and other attractive entertainments.

Line Party Tuesday.

Tuesday afternoon Geraldine Monroe entertained with a line party at the Strand, Wednesday afternoon Miss Elizabeth Langford entertained with a birthday party, and Friday Miss Isabel Stone will entertain with a party for her guest, Milly Dinkle of Marshall.

The line party at the Strand was a very delightful one, Mesdames G. N. and J. R. Monroe assisting the hostess in entertaining. The film was "The Jack-O-Lantern," and was much enjoyed, after which ice cream and cake were served to the following at the Fells confectionery: Misses Amelia Miller, Margaret and Katherwn Payne of Graham, Isabel Stone and Milly Dinkle of Marshall, Margaret Walker of Bryan, Elizabeth Langford, Margaret Hines, Mildred Gildhouse, Madoline Hill, Katheryn Weeks, Helen Avis, Mildred Buchanan and Mildred and Dorothy Reid.

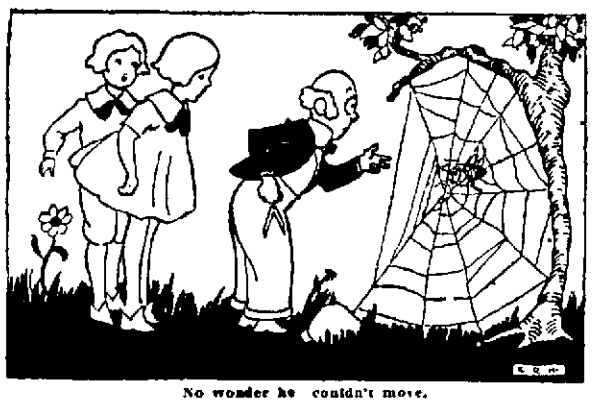
ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

HOW BUDDY BLUEBOTTLE WAS FREED

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON



No wonder he couldn't move.

It was being whispered all over Bright Meadowland. Everyone was talking about it, but no one knew who had started it. Some said it was Mike Mole, who had a habit of disappearing into one of his million underground passages the minute he heard a remark.

Some said it was the kingfisher, but he'd gone on a fishing trip to Silver River.

Nancy and Nick heard it and told it to Dr. Snuffles, the fairy doctor, but what was the use? He couldn't do anything because he didn't know where Buddy—

But there! Dearie me! I've not told you yet what they were saying. Everybody was saying to his neighbor, "Buddy Bluebottle can't move. Hasn't moved since seven o'clock this morning."

Well, Dr. Snuffles couldn't help him any, because he didn't know where Buddy was in the first place, and in the second place because he didn't know why Buddy couldn't move.

He'd have asked Buddy's ma and his pa, but he didn't know where they lived either. It was rumored Buddy had no ma and pa, and even whispered that they, too, had been unable to move, just like Buddy, before they left him an orphan.

By and by Sar' Ann Spider passed on her way to school.

"M-m-m-m," she was saying to Flossy Fuzzy-Worm. "I wish school were over. We're going to have something extra good for lunch, but I'm not allowed to tell."

"Ah, ha!" nodded Dr. Snuffles wisely. "Now I know."

He called Nancy and Nick and took his sharp scissors and started off.

There was poor Buddy Bluebottle in Mrs. Spider's web, bound all around with a strong thread. No wonder he couldn't move!

Snip! Snip! went Dr. Snuffles' long scissors.

Buddy was soon free and, after he buzzed his thanks, flew away.

Ware's Baby Powder Relieved Bowel Trouble Over night. Baby Soon Fat and Healthy.

Mrs. John Webb, 7115 Avenue E., Magnolia Park, Houston, Tex., writes as follows: "My baby was sick two weeks ago with stomach and bowel trouble. I gave her everything I could hear of and everything the doctor sent her, but nothing would do her any good. I had almost given up all hope when one of my neighbors told me about Ware's Baby Powder. So I sent for the powder and gave the first dose about 11:30 that night, and the next morning her bowels were regulated. Now my baby eats like a little pig and is fat and healthy."

Ware's Baby Powder is harmless and babies and children love to take it. Given in liquid form mixed with sugar and water. Prescription of famous old doctor; in use over 40 years. At drug stores, 50c and $1.00. Prepared by The Ware Chemical Co., Dallas, Texas. Adv.-2

GIRLS! LEMONS WHITEN THE SKIN

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of harmless and delightful lemon bleach. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day, then shortly note the beauty and whiteness of your skin.

Famous stage beauties use this lemon lotion to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate. (adv.)

Don't Spoil Your Child's Hair By Washing It

When you wash your child's hair be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup or glass with a little warm water is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water, and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. You can get Mulsified at any drug store and a few ounces will last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. (adv.)

REQUEST VETERANS INJURED TO OBTAIN THEIR CERTIFICATE

AUGUST NINTH IS LAST DAY FOR REGISTERING SUCH CASES

IMPORTANCE OF MATTER URGED IN STATEMENT

Failure to Register Will Prevent Injured One From Receiving Benefits

DALLAS, July 26.—Veterans of the world war who were injured in any way or contracted disease during government service, were urged to obtain a certificate of injury before August 9, the last day for registering such cases, in a statement issued today by S. C. Kile, district manager of district 14, U. S. veterans' bureau here. Failure to obtain such a certificate before the period for registration expires will prevent the former service man from receiving compensation benefits from the government even though the injury may become serious at some future time, the statement said.

"There are thousands of former service men, no doubt hundreds in Texas alone, who sustained slight injuries or contracted disease during the period of their service, who have thought little of possible results," Manager Kile said. "These men should realize that at any time the injury may give them unexpected trouble and in this case they should have assistance from the government, under the provisions of the war risk insurance act.

"Under the terms of an amendment to the war risk insurance act, passed by congress August 9, 1921, all former service men who have minor injuries must register the same before August 9, 1922, or forfeit all claims to future benefits of the act. This means that many veterans are going to lose their claim to assistance because of failure to register the injury with the veterans' bureau.

"It is not necessary to file a claim for compensation or to take any formal action to register such minor injuries or defects which resulted from service. All that is necessary is to write to the director, U. S. Veterans' Bureau, Washington, giving name, rank, organization, date of enlistment and discharge, and stating circumstances under which the disease or injury was incurred. Such action may be the means of determining disability of the veteran, for either compensation or pension benefits. These same regulations apply also to parents and other beneficiaries who are not receiving compensation for death of a dependent while in service.

"All Texas former service men who incurred injuries while in service, no matter how slight they may have been, are urged to take proper steps for protection before August 9."

PLAN PERMANENT ROADS FOR HENDERSON COUNTY

MURCHISON, July 26.—Recommendation that a campaign be launched to float $1,500,000 bonds for the construction of permanent roads in Henderson county was made at a good will meeting of the county, held here recently. Under the plan discussed, the county would issue bonds for one-half the cost of road improvements and application made to the federal government for the other half.

CLAIM AGENTS POSTPONE THEIR ANNUAL MEETING

GALVESTON, July 26.—Because of unsettled conditions as a result of the railroad strike, the annual three-day convention of the Southwest Claim Agents' association, which was to have been held here last week, was indefinitely postponed. WICHITA IS AMONG THE LEADING COUNTIES TOTAL WAGE EARNERS IN MANUFACTURING INDUSTRIES

DALLAS, July 26.—The industrial importance of Texas is shown by the fact that in 158 counties the number of wage earners in manufacturing industries is more than 90,000 and the average annual amount paid to these wage earners is $98,521,636, according to statistics on industrial operations announced today by W. M. Barrickman, secretary of the Texas Industrial congress.

Of the 6,724 manufacturing industries in Texas, returned in the census of 1920, 6,153 are reported in the 158 counties considered in the above statement, according to Secretary Barrickman, while the remaining 571 manufacturing establishments are contained in the other 95 counties of the state. The latter group of industries employs an average of 17,252 workmen, with wages amounting annually to $32,582,164. Thus it is seen that the wage earner in Texas industrial plants receives an average annual wage of $1,074, based upon the census of 1920.

A tabulation of the leading counties of the state in industrial activities shows that Dallas county stands first in the number of manufacturing establishments with 493; Harris county stands second with 422; Bexar, third, with 328; Tarrant, fourth, with 257, and El Paso, fifth, with 217.

Harris county leads the state in the number of wage earners and wages paid, according to the tabulation. The southern Texas county, with Houston as the chief industrial center, has an average of 11,411 workmen who receive an average of $12,173,174 annually in wages. Tarrant county, with Fort Worth as the principal center of activity, stands second, reporting 9,196 wage earners and a payroll of $10,563,246; Dallas county, third, with 8,708 wage earners and wages amounting to $8,752,026.

Other leading counties in industrial activities include:

	Establishments	Wage Earners	Wages
Bexar	328	6,850	$5,977,635
El Paso	217	4,316	4,847,254

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people.—Proverbs 14:34.

The sources of artificial strength and artificial weakness are being dried up. Governors and governed, employers and employed, are coming to be co-workers for the same ends. Not the old mercies repeated, but new mercies going vastly deeper than the old—these are what men are beginning to see that the world is needing and that God is giving to the world He loves.—Phillips Brooks.

STATISTICS ON CHURCH MEMBERSHIP

According to stastistics gathered by the Federal Council of Churches, and printed in the year book of the churches which has just been issued, of every 106 persons in the United States, 10 have no religious affiliation and 96 are affiliated through membership, financial support, attendance or other ties with various religious bodies, as follows: Protestant, 75; Roman Catholic, 18; other faiths, 3; no religious affiliation, 10. Total, 106.

The year book of the church gives the total church population of the country as follows: Roman Catholic, 17,885,646; Eastern Orthodox, 411,054; Latter Day Saints, 587,918; Jewish 1,600,000; Protestant, 75,099,489. Total, 95,584,107.

On this basis the Methodist and Baptist churches have a greater constituency than the Roman Catholic church, the figures being: Methodists, 22,171,959; Baptists, 21,938,700; Roman Catholics, 17,885,646.

In connection with these figures, the year book, which was compiled by Dr. E. O. Watson, Washington secretary of the Federal Council of Church explains the difficulty of reaching a basis of comparison of the different religious bodies owing to their varying basis of membership.

The year book of the church brings out the different methods of computing membership in the Roman Catholic and most of the Protestant bodies. The Roman Catholic church, according to the Catholic directory, includes in its membership "Catholic population," while all but a few small bodies of the Protestant churches count only communicant members. So the two figures are not comparable unless the Protestant membership is used as a basis for "constituency" or "Protestant population."

It has been somewhat difficult to get the proper ratio between communicant membership and constituency but Dr. Walter Laidlaw of New York, who has had large experience as statistician of the New York Federation of Churches and in the census bureau, has demonstrated through various tests that communicant membership multiplied by 2.8 will give "church population." For instance, it is misleading to say that there are 17,885,646 Roman Catholic and 26,745,543 Protestants, when the former refers to "Roman Catholic Population" and the latter is "communicant membership." To make them comparable the Protestant communicant membership has been multiplied by 2.8.

The year book also shows that whereas by the latest figures available on January 1, 1921, the combined communicant membership of the Baptist church of the country led the combined Methodists by 37,259, belated returns by the colored Methodist Episcopal church give the Methodists a lead of 83,307. The growth of the colored Methodist Episcopal church is said to be the most remarkable growth of the churches for the five year period. The Methodists have 7,918,557 communicant members and the Baptists 7,835,250 communicant members.

"BEASTLY DRUNK"

You have used the expression, "beastly drunk." What does it mean? You never saw a beast drunk.

"Beastly drunk" is an old expression. It started from a book written by George Gascoigne. The book has this curious title. "A delicate Diet for daintie mouthed Droonkardes, wherein the fowle abuse of common carowsing and quaffing with hartie Draughtes is honestlie admonished."

All this was 346 years ago. It took a long time to get prohibition.

If you wonder what human nature was like in 1576, and would compare it with the present, read this classification of drunkards written by Thomas Nash, English satirist, shortly after Gascoigne published his book:

"The first is ape-drunk, and he leaps and sings and hollows and danceth for the heavens.

"The second is lion-drunk, and he flings the pots about the house, breaks the window glass with his dagger, and is apt to quarrel with any man that speaks to him.

"The third is swine-drunk, heavy lumpish, and sleepy, and cries for a little more drink and a few more clothes.

"The fourth is sheep-drunk, wise in his own conceit when he bringeth forth a right word.

"The fifth is mauldin-drunk, when a fellow will weep for kindness in the midst of his drink, and kiss you, and then he puts his finger in his eye and cries.

"The sixth is martin-drunk, when in his drunkenness he hath no mind but on lechery.

"The eighth is fox-drunk, when he is crafty-drunk, which will never bargain but when they are drunk."

Nash adds "All these species, and more, I have seen practised in one company at one sitting; when I have been permitted to remain sober amongst them only to note their several humours."

A bartender, reading Nash's satire, would chuckle and recall that all these drunken types were common onl ya few years ago in our saloons.

Nash's satire is a clever classification of the temporary insanity that accompanies John Barleycorn.

People were noticing it, when Nash lived in the 16th century—also long before that. The wonder is, not that we have prohibition, but that it didn't come centuries ago.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

DISAPPOINTMENT.

In somewhat the same way that great catastrophies make us all akin in feeling, sympathy and a desire to help one another, so does disappointment come to us individually to sooth and sober us for the more serious tasks of life.

I often think of the smile within—let me so express it—that covers so much in the hearts of so many brave people.

Disappointment needs these smiles within if any thing does.

To see one's dreams blotted out or one's ideals shattered is disappointment, indeed—but what city once wiped out by fire or disaster did not rise to be greater and better?

There is always a higher ground for us all.

I believe that we all of us arrive at stations in our personal experience when it seems as though we had come to the end of our road. We are immediately arrested. We have traveled far. We are tired from the heat and effort of the day. We feel much of our hard work was in vain.

What shall we do—turn back?

Oh, no. Let us make a new road and keep right on. Soon or later we will again meet older roads, familiar and much trodden, that will ease our tired joints and lighten our hearts and prove to our own satisfaction that it never pays to despair, or to let disappointment rule the way.

There is one true thing about disappointment. It can be conquered! Also you can forget it—for brooding over disappointment is like fanning a flame. You can build upon disappointment, too.

JUST FOLKS

HIGH CHAIR DAYS.

High chair days are the best of all,
Or so they seem to me,
Days when tumbler and platter fall
And the King smiles merrily;
When the regal arms and the regal feet
A constant patter of music beat,
And the grown-ups bow in a gracious way
To the high-chair monarch who rules the day.

High-chair days, and the throne not dressed
In golden or purple hue,
But an old style thing, let it be confessed,
His grandmother used to use;
Its legs are scarred and a trifle bowed,
But the king who sits on the chair is proud,
And he throws his rattle and silver cup
For the joy of making us pick them up.

The old high chair in the dining room
Is a handsomer thing by far
Than the costly chairs in the lonely gloom
Of the childless mansions are,
For the sweetest laughter the world has known
Comes day by day from that humble throne,
And the happiest tables, morn and night,
Have a high chair placed at the mother's right.

The old high chair is a joy sublime,
Yet it brings us its hour of pain,
For we've put it away from time to time,
Perhaps never to need it again,
Yet God was good, and the angels tapped,
And again was the old high-chair unwrapped,
And proud was I when I heard the call
To bring it back to the dining hall.

There are grays to meet and cares to face
Through the years that lie ahead,
The proudest monarch must lose his place
And lie with the splendid dead;
I know there are blows I shall have to meet,
I must pay with the bitter for all life's sweet,
But I live in dread of that coming day
When forever the high chair goes away.

SMILE A WHILE

By TOM SIMS.

If a golfer walks around the links for his health, any mail carrier ought to whip Dempsey.

Woman's place is in the home. Some men think it is in the garden.

Ever since fashion men said nightshirts were back we have been looking for a hotel fire to see if it is true.

Only thing worse than a man who can't cuss is a woman who can

Most any man will tell a lie about how truthful he is.

YOU AND I

By ALBERT APPLE

RICHER.

How much is foreign trade affecting your prosperity? In the last 12 months—what the headache papers call "the fiscal year ended June 30—exports averaged about $35 for each American, and imports $24

This leaves us to the good about $11 apiece. It makes you wonder if the importance of foreign trade is not sometimes exaggerated. Economists, however, figure that the difference between normal foreign trade and no foreign trade is the differences between prosperity and hard times.

LOSS.

Exports in the last 12 months totaled $3,770,000,000. This was $2,748,000,000 less than the previous 12 months. Imports dropped $1,046,000,000

Back of this is a national tendency to buy more from other countries and sell them less. We still, however are over a billion a year to the good. This is profit.

HALTED

A farmer near L'Islet, Quebec, meets a band of gypsies and swaps his son for a horse. The law rescues the lad and brings the father to account. His defense is "The boy is mine I can do with him as I please."

Once that was the normal attitude. It still is in parts of the orient, where children are sold like dogs. Today our courts hold that children have rights even before they are born. You can measure a nation's degree of civilization by its care of its children

JULES.

The first man killed in the World war was Corporal Jules Peugeot, a Frenchman. A monument to him is unveiled with elaborate ceremonies.

Jules was 21 years old, in the flower of his manhood, when a German bullet carried him into eternity. He was typical of the toll of war—young, promising, ambitious, "the best of the lot."

That is the kind of meat the war god loves. Biologists tell you that war makes a nation stronger in the long run. False! War always takes the best.

DRUNK.

Clever European lecturers visit us with the attitude of children inspecting a zoo. They return home. Asked what they think of prohibition in America, they crack the old stale vaudeville joke, such as, "When do they begin enforcing it?"

Dr. Robert Hercod, a wise Swiss who imagines nothing but facts, has been looking us over. He returns home and tells the reporters of his country that he saw only two drunken persons during his two-months' tour of our country.

When you imagine that prohibition is a failure, look about you; then summon up in memory the drunkards of old saloon days.

SAFER.

Is it safe to take a trip in a flying machine? You would think so, if you flew 1,750,000 miles and came out alive. That is what our air mail has done in the last 12 months with no fatalities. Incidentally, it carried 49,000,000 letters.

In the previous year, 17 were killed carrying mail by airplane

Flying is getting safer. That is more important than news about faster flying. The airplane will become popular only as it is made safer

MONOTONY.

Twelve million steps have been climbed by George R. Herrick. He is the night watchman at the Continental Mills in Lewiston, Mass. For 25 years he has climbed steps and "rung in" clocks

Think of George when your job seems monotonous. We are all in much the same boat.

SPORT.

Here's a woman who celebrates her 99th birthday by taking her usual daily ride in one of these bathtubs that are attached to motorcycles. She is Mrs. Hannah Matteson of Hope Valley, Rhode Island

People who are on the verge of surrendering to old age can learn from Mrs. Matteson that age is mainly a matter of viewpoint. It is largely in the heart. Think youthful thoughts do youthful things, and you'll never be really old. That probably was how Noah kept himself chipper and spry until he died at the age of 950

DOOMED.

For years we have all been moaning about "the old oaken bucket that hung in the well." Quarrels have advertised the famous old bucket until most of us have it indelibly in our brains as a symbol for pure, refreshing water.

Now comes the Connecticut state board of health and warns that most wells with an old oaken bucket are germ-polluted, and about as fit to drink from as a swamp.

Most of our sentimental ideals would be unmasked the same way if we gave them sound analytical thought.

ENIGMA.

There is a quotation containing 25 letters. Indicating the letters by their numerical position in the quotation, new words have been formed with them.

For instance:

A titled English author—13, 8, 5, 1, 24—Scott (Sir Walter). The "s" will be the thirteenth letter in the quotation, the "c" the eighth, the "o" the fifteenth, the first "t" the first and the second "t" the twenty-fourth

Can you solve the mystery of the hidden quotation? Here are the key words:

A titled English author—13, 8, 15, 1, 24.

Part of a barrel—25, 3, 10, 14.

An English poet—21, 7, 22, 2, 6.

A masculine nickname—12, 5, 4

A city in Germany—11, 16, 20, 17.

Call of a certain bird—19, 9, 23, 18.

Answer to last one: Every dog must have his day. Key words: ring, Hughes, via, Morse, V, Eddy, tea

BEWARE OF BAD TEETH

By DR R H BISHOP

A lot of familiar diseases have their origin at the root of some infected tooth or from gums that are infected with pyorrhea, and inflammatory condition of the gums about the necks of the teeth, which ultimately form pus

If decay is not removed and the tooth filled, the enamel will break down and will cause a hole large enough to collect food, which will eventually rot, causing toothache and much pain. Illness which may result from decayed teeth are rheumatism, heart trouble, abscess, skin diseases, colds, boils and nervousness.

Don't wait for a tooth to ache, before having it treated. It is usually too far gone to save when it aches Have it treated before it pains

It's much less painful to prevent toothache by taking care of the teeth and having them "overhauled" twice a year

The prevention of decay is painlessly and simply brought about. It is only when neglect allows decay to penetrate the inner pulp that toothache drives most people to the dental chair. This probably means that the nerve must be "killed"—which is not nearly so simple and painless as preventing toothache and decay by a little foresight

LEARN A WORD EVERY DAY.

Today's word is—Lull

It's pronounced lul, with the u short.

It means—to soothe to rest to become gradually calm. It may also be used as a noun, as the lull before the storm."

It is akin to the German "lullen," the Danish "lulle," and the Swedish "lulla," all imitative of low and soothing sounds

It is used like this: "He was lulled to sleep by soft music."

"Wells is an old fool!" Andrew continued. "I say, there is nothing any of us can do for Roger he'll sleep like a baby tonight and be all right in the morning. I'm going out and I shan't be back until late but I'll take my key and I won't disturb you if you'll tell Carter not to put the chain on the door."

He strode heavily from the room and in another moment Miss Drake and Hobart followed.

"It's work for nothing to set the table for them; they don't hardly touch a thing!" Carter mourned, as he and Miles cleared away the final debris of the meal. "I'm sure I don't know what's come to this house, nor where it's going to end!"

"What's there to be scared off?" Miles asked stoutly. "I've seen nothing barring that fainting spell of Mr Roger's today. Is he often took like that?"

Carter shook his head.

"Only once before and that was just a day or two after—after the constable brought Mr Hobart home when he'd been walking in his sleep—That's what you heard, ain't it, William?" He asked the question with almost pathetic eagerness.

"No," William replied bluntly. "If you want the truth I heard he was either drunk or crazy."

"Not a thing had he touched that night, for I had the only set of keys to the wine cellar!" Carter asserted solemnly. "I've yet to see Mr Hobart in liquor but I can't say as much for Mr. Andrew." Mr Andrew was a trial to the rest of the family when he came back, though he's toned down considerable, especially in his language. It was shocking to hear, William!"

"I shouldn't be surprised," Miles observed. "Did he bring those fits back with him, too, from Australia?"

"You mean what happened last Monday?" Carter lowered his voice. "If you want to know my opinion from what I could get out of Edward I think Mr Andrew was shamming though the Lord only knows why!"

Miles glanced sharply at the old man but his tone was casual as he remarked

"He was playing a trick on Edward maybe, but there was no fake about Mr Roger's faint today."

"No, and as for Mr Hobart, I'm glad he's given up the stock market before—before he lost everything though sometimes I've wished that the money never came in the first place! It was that made all three of them act queer long ago and though I almost forgot about it in the years between, perhaps they've been wrong in the head ever since."

"How do you mean they acted queer when they came into their money?" asked Miles.

"I remember when the news came and though they were excited it struck me then that not one of them seemed really happy about it or even surprised. Mr Hobart seemed to think only of getting back at other folks for all the years of hardship they'd been through, getting rich by making other folks poor. It gave me the shivers to hear him. You would have thought that there was a death in the house!" continued Carter. "They didn't talk to each other any more'n they had to, didn't scarcely look at each other and it seemed as though there was almost hatred between them! Mr Andrew had ugly fits of temper that he'd never showed before and other times Mr Roger would break down and go all to pieces right out of a clear sky only Mr. Hobart kept a level head on his shoulders and all at once I noticed that the hair at each side of his forehead was turning gray—and him only 23! But quiet years came after, and comfortable ones, and I forgot until this trouble now brought it all back to me."

CHAPTER XIV

Like two housebreakers Sergeant Miles and Scottie stole up the back stairs that night and halted before the door at the end of the hall

As he drew the skeleton keys from his pocket Miles indicated the traces of wax which still adhered to the lock then whispered, "Andrew! He wanted to get in here mighty bad, didn't he?"

Scottie nodded, not trusting himself to speak and his companion oiled the lock and key-hole carefully before setting to work. He made no noise but the minutes dragged out interminably while the other watched and listened tensely for a possible interruption. The key clicked faintly in the lock and the door swung slowly inward

"Wait till I close the door," Miles commanded then as a tiny light gleamed out. "Good! There's a bolt on the inside and we can't be surprised. Andrew may come home at any time and I have a hunch that he'll try to finish then what he started this afternoon."

"It looks as though he'd made a pretty thorough job of it if destruction was his object," Scottie commented dryly as the rapier-like thrust of light played about the dense blackness of the room. "May the de'il take us if we're not in a museum!"

They were in a huge low-ceilinged room which had evidently been long unused for human occupancy. On the left trunks and packing cases of all shapes and sizes were heaped pell-mell with broken hasps. From their depths a heterogeneous mass of relics and manscripts had been scattered in all directions.

Haughty, though fragmentary idols and humble cooking pots, fearsome weapons, bits of crumbled carving, and among them all roll after roll of ancient parchment together with note-books of a more modern day.

Scottie approached a long, metal-lined box and after one glance within promptly retreated

"It's a mummy!" Miles gazed briefly down at the small, lightly swathed form and then turned indifferently away. "If Andrew found what he was looking for this afternoon, we're wasting our time, but I don't think he was successful. Those note-books must contain the result of years of study and classification and see how the pages are torn out and scattered about!"

"It's the one place we never thought of, Scottie!"

"Then it was writing that Andrew was after, and modern writing at that, for he's only thrown the parchments aside!" Scottie gathered up a handful of the loose sheets and examined them critically

"But what was he looking for? That's what we've got to find out. What would Roger have written and carted all around the world with him that his brother would want badly enough to steal? Mr Wells told me that the three brothers were devotedly attached to each other, but I have seen small evidence of affection on Andrew's part for any of them."

"Do you see all these old caskets of metal and carved bone?" Scottie was playing his torch over the ancient relics which littered the floor. "Perhaps we can find one or two that hasn't been broken open."

It was long past midnight when they desisted at last and Miles remarked with a shrug

"I guess we'd better give it up, old man. If there was anything here bearing on our problem Andrew must have made off with it, after all."

Scottie suppressed a sneeze heroically as the dust which still floated in the air assailed his nostrils and replied in a strangled voice

"The mould of the ages is eating into my lungs and there's a musty, spicy odor from that mummy—"

"The mummy!" Miles struck his hands together softly. "It's the one place we never thought of, Scottie! We're not finished yet."

He darted over to the long coffin-like case and his companion followed somewhat reluctantly.

"The—the person doesn't appear to have been disturbed since the Pyramids were built," he ventured. "What are you about, lad? You're never going to undress it!"

"It's Peruvian, not Egyptian; don't you see the inscription?" responded Miles in a quick, excited whisper. "Moreover, the wrappings about the head and breast have been unwound within a very few years at most and then replaced!

Miles inserted his hand with infinite care beneath the displaced fabric which covered the shrunken flint-like breast and drew forth a slender roll of parchment. Scottie hastily returned his unwieldy burden to its original position and strode around the case to stare over his friend's shoulder at the discovery.

"It's in figure writing!" he exclaimed disgustedly as the roll unwound. "You'd never be able to read it and it would do you no good if you did! I've no doubt it's a prayer. Put it back, Owen, it's defying Providence—"

"Defying your grandmother!" Miles interrupted. "This message is in Egyptian hieroglyphics, Scottie. I know that much!—Egyptian picture writing in the wrappings of a Peruvian mummy!—Get me a piece of that parchment from the floor, will you?"

Scottie complied and held both his torch and that of his companion while the latter compared the texture of the scrolls. At length he drew a quick breath and faced the older man with shining eyes

"I can't read a word of it as you say, but by the Lord Harry I think we've got it! There are professors in town who can decipher it for us and be depended upon to hold tongues afterward, and we'll see that it reaches one of them tomorrow!

"But it can't be what Andrew was looking for!" Scottie expostulated. "He certainly cannot translate heire—what you said!"

"Nor would he have known that it was what he wanted if he had found it!" retorted Miles. "Can't you see old man? That was the intention of the person who placed it there. It is something that had to be preserved and yet must be undecipherable to anyone not a student of Egyptology."

Miles stowed papyrus and parchment carefully in his pocket.

Switching off their torches they stole from the room, but as Miles relocked the door behind them his companion seized his arm.

"Do you hear that?" Scottie's husky whisper breathed in his ear. "Someone's up, and there's a wee streak of light coming from that room at the front. Whose is it?"

"Hobart's," whispered Miles in reply. "Flatten yourself against the wall and walk as lightly as you can; we're going to look into this!"

Foot by foot they crept along the hall until they neared Hobart's door, and then halted as though transfixed, for the voice of Miss Drake, trembling and charged with long pent-up emotion, came to the listener's ears.

"It's no use! If we were the only ones concerned I would have kept this from you but it shall not be visited upon the next generation! I know the truth, Hobart! I have always known!"

LENROOT MAKES SHARP ATTACK ON SENATOR GOODING

WASHINGTON, July 26.—A sharp attack on Senator Gooding of Idaho, chairman of the republican agricultural block, by Senator Lenroot, republican, Wisconsin, and a heated exchange between the two senators marked continuation to debate today in the senate on the Lenroot amendment to lower the proposed duties on coarse wools.

Asserting that Senator Gooding was the greatest enemy of the farmer in America, Senator Lenroot declared that the inevitable result of Mr. Gooding's policy with regard to wool duties would be to return the democrats to control of the government with free wool and all that would entail in the way of hardships for the wool growers.

"The senator stands for the sky as the limit upon every rate proposed in this bill," declared Senator Lenroot. "I do not know of a single rate voted upon which he has not voted for the highest proposed by the committee.

Senator Gooding interrupted to say he could defend every rate he had voted for "under conditions as they prevail in the world today."

The Wisconsin senator retorted that unfortunately the senator could not convince the country of the justice of all the rates.

"The senator wants an embargo," continued Senator Lenroot, "and if that policy could be put into effect he would strike a blow at every farmer in America."

Senator Lenroot went on to say that the consumer was lost sight of entirely by Senator Gooding. In this connection he asserted that the Payne-Aldrich wool schedule had defeated the republican party within three years after its enactment.

HAVE PROMISED WORKERS TO PROTECT THEIR RIGHTS

CHICAGO, July 26.—Two big western trunk lines, the Santa Fe and the Southern Pacific, reporting today to the United States railroad labor board in support of the road's contention that the seniority question is the big issue at stake in the shop crafts strike, declared they had 15,020 men at work who would be affected by it.

These men, the roads said, have been promised that they will be protected in their seniority rights over all men who may be employed later or who may return to their jobs.

The Santa Fe presented figures to the board showing 6,513 skilled mechanics and 2,805 shop laborers were at work in its shops last night.

The Southern Pacific report shows that out of 15,000 shopmen employed June 30, 5,268 did not walk out and that return of strikers and employment of new men have brought the total employed last night up to 8,648.

Both roads told the labor board that the men now employed were all skilled mechanics or laborers qualified to perform their duties and not strikebreakers picked up at random.

Federal officials Wednesday afternoon were investigating a report that a negro employe of the postoffice had been beaten up by a policeman who had gone to the federal building to arrest him.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE.

American husbands-to-be prefer not to think about buying their brides' clothes till after the ceremony, but in Central Asia the method of proposal is to ask a girl if one may buy her clothes.

WILL BE NO DELAY IN TRIAL OF MORSE SAYS PROSECUTION

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The trial of the criminal charge of conspiracy to defraud the United States and the shipping board in connection with war contracts pending in the District of Columbia against Charles W. Morse, his three sons and eight others, will not await the determination of any civil controversy between the defendants and the government, United States Attorney Peyton Gordon today declared.

Referring to the reported agreement between Fletcher Dobyns, special assistant to the attorney general, and counsel for Morse at the recent hearing in habeas corpus proceedings at Portland, Maine, to defer the trial of the criminal charges pending in Washington and New York until the disposition of the civil cases between Mr. Morse and the government, Mr. Gordon said: "If Mr. Dobyns entered into such an agreement it was without my knowledge or consent and was also without the consent or knowledge of the attorney general. Insofar as the cases in this jurisdiction are concerned he had not the authority to make any such agreement or stipulation."

EXPECT FIRST TEST OF STRENGTH IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The first test of strength in the senate on the Lenroot proposition to reduce the proposed tariff on coarse wool and manufactures thereof was expected today. Leaders of the republican agricultural tariff bloc and other opponents of the suggested change believed they would muster a safe majority. They counted upon at least seven democratic votes.

The pending amendment would limit to 60 per cent ad valorem the maximum duties on carpet wools. Should it be rejected the fight would not end. Senator Lenroot proposing to offer a similar amendment to the second raw wool paragraph embracing rates on the finest as well as the lowest grade wools used for other than the making of carpets.

Democratic leaders plan to continue their fight on the duties proposed. They have announced their support of the Lenroot proposal but will urge cuts all along the line in the wool schedule.

said that the road was rapidly replacing the men who went out and that the strikers had lost their opportunity to return to work on the road.

In a proclamation to the people Colonel Nimon urged observance of the law.

In response to a telephone message of a Missouri, Kansas and Texas lineman at Warner Junction, two miles north of Denison, that he had been threatened by two men while he was repairing a telegraph line, two rangers were sent there. The lineman said that the men had threatened to kill him unless he quit work.

RANGERS AROUSE GREAT INTEREST IN DENISON

DENISON, TEXAS, July 26.—Never in the history of the Texas rangers, which extends back to early statehood, have so many of the organization been assembled in one place as were assembled in Denison last night, according to veteran members.

Thirty-seven rangers from various sections of the state were here having been assembled upon the call of the governor. Several of them left today for service in Sherman and Childress.

Several members of the force, who have been on duty near the Mexican border and in west Texas in isolated sections where civilization has scarcely left a mark, are expected to reach here tonight. They have been traveling steadily since Sunday, first many miles by horseback to the nearest railroad.

Booted and spurred, broad brimmed hats pulled low over bronzed faces, side arms peeping from under coats, the rangers arouse great interest in Denison.

CAMP MABRY DESERTED RESULT MARTIAL LAW

AUSTIN, TEXAS, July 26.—Yesterday a scene of bustling military activity, Camp Mabry is today deserted on account of the departure last night for Denison of the 250 national guardsmen to enforce martial law declared by Governor Neff. The guardsmen left on a special train in command of Colonel Charles N. Nimon. Just before the train pulled out of the M. K. and T. railroad yards Governor Neff in a short address impressed on the soldiers the seriousness of their mission and urged them to conduct themselves accordingly.

No further developments in the strike have occurred here this morning.

The troops sent to Denison from here yesterday were picked for this duty because of their efficiency and experience, it was announced at the adjutant general's department this morning. About 60 per cent of the men are ex-service men, it was said, many of whom served overseas during the world.

TEXAS RANGERS GUARD RAILROADS AT SHERMAN

SHERMAN, TEXAS, July 26.—Captain Roy C. Nichols, company C, Texas rangers, accompanied by three of his men, arrived here today to guard railroad property and workmen under the "open port" law. About 400 shopmen are on strike here and the city is quiet. It is said to be the first time in the history of Sherman that rangers have been sent here for duty.

Buffs Fail to Solve Keene and Spudders Take Fifth Straight

By PAUL W. LARKIN.

Victor Keene and his supporting cast with the Spudder troupe spent another profitable afternoon at Athletic park Tuesday. In fact, it was the fifth in succession they have put to good purpose since the last game in Dallas Friday. The five victories in a row have enabled the Wichitans to pull up from the lower regions of the second division to a tie with the San Antonio Bears for third place, two games behind the leaders. Tuesday Vic Keene and a few of his companions conspired with the net result that Keene set the Houston Buffs down in the opening game of the series by a score of 7 to 3.

There really wasn't any necessity for the contest going nine innings. The last five were played simply because the rules so provide. The issue was definitely settled after the Spudders had batted in the fourth. The home boys had accumulated seven tallies by that time, which were ample, for Keene was twirling masterful ball and it was very evident that the Buffs weren't going to have a chance.

Victor was in excellent form. He pitched airtight ball in all but the opening period, when the visitors bunched two of their four hits for their only earned run of the game. Two more were subsequently scored, but it was no fault of Vic's. A wild heave by Bischoff accounted for one in the fourth and a passed ball by the same offender gave them their third and last in the ninth. In six of the nine innings the Buffs were retired in order.

Bischoff, however, propelled a home run over the left center fence in the third canto which unnerved Glazier to such an extent that he couldn't get the side out until three tallies had been made. The wallop was one of those prodigious affairs which cleared the barrier at the coca-cola sign by a wide margin.

Fluke Homer for Tanner.

Buddy Tanner also drove one out of the lot, but it was more or less fluky. He caught one of Glazier's offerings on the snout in the fourth and drove it on a line to dead left. There was plenty of power behind the smash and thought it fell inside the inclosure it took one bounce and cleared the fence. Two Spudders were aboard at the time and they would easily have scored had the sphere remained within the confines of the park.

Earl Adams had another big day at short and spoiled a perfect performance in the ninth when he heaved the agate several miles over Fred Beck's head. This toss got Keene in bad as the runner ultimately scored. One double play in which he figured was particularly noteworthy. With a runner on first, the batsman hit to Fred Beck. Fred hurried his throw to get two and it went wide of the mark. Adams stretched out full length on the ground and his toe hooked onto the bag and speared the heave and returned the ball to Beck from the same position to complete the double killing. Two more double plays were turned in by the locals during the matinee.

"Red" Josefson was back at his old familiar station in right field and had a rather busy day. Beck gave him plenty to do by driving three skyscrapers to him while Adams also sent a couple to him. Johnny Monroe, who formerly sported the spangles of the Exporters, cavorted around second base for the first time here this season. Johnny has been in the big show and in the Southern since he made his last appearance in Wichita Falls.

The Buffs collected a run before Keene had become fairly settled in the first inning. Bittle greeted him with a single and reached third on a couple of infield outs. Whiteman smashed a line double to center which scored him, but George was left stranded on second.

Spudders Take Lead.

The southerners held this lead until the last of the third when the Spudders counted thrice on four hits. Bischoff knocked the props out from under Glazier for a starter when he drove one over the fence. Keene followed with a scratch single through Monroe, but he was forced at second a moment later when Bescher hit to the same player. Tanner put Bob on second with a drive through Doyle and Bob then made a pretty steal of third. He got away to a good lead and finished it up with a perfect slide. Benninghoven failed to hold one of Glazier's fast ones while Adams was at bat and Tanner romped to second. Adams scored both runners when he bounced a hit to center. Humma popped to Bailey, trying to drag one down and Weiss fanned.

The Buffs got one back in the next period. Two men had been retired when Josefson and Doyle drew passes. With Monroe at the bat Bischoff had a short passed ball which enabled Josefson to reach third. "Bisch" figured a quick and accurate peg might head "Red" off, however, and he cut loose. The throw was quick enough, but it was far from accurate. Josefson loped home. Doyle went as far as third and stayed there while Monroe was whiffing.

The Wichitans got lucky in their portion of the frame and chased four more over. Beck had asked to Josefson and White had lined to Blades when the trouble started. Glazier began it himself by passing Bischoff and Keene. Keene took a short snooze on first, but the mental lapse was converted into a run when the visitors started throwing the ball around. Glazier threw to Bailey in plenty of time to catch him off the bag, but Keene hit out for second. This move forced Bischoff to start for third. Bailey ran half way across the diamond to head off the latter and then threw the ball by Doyle. Bischoff scooted home and when Benninghoven let Doyle's heave to the plate bound away from him Keene went to third. Bescher followed with a walk and promptly stole second. It was at this point that Tanner bounced one over the left field fence which cleared the paths.

Base Hits Wasted.

Benninghoven opened the fifth with a safe drive to right, but a double play killed any chance the invaders might have had. They were retired in order in the sixth but Josefson started the seventh with a scratch through White only to become the first victim in a double killing before the session was over.

Glazier withdrew in the eighth in favor of a pinch hitter, but the pinch swatter failed to deliver. Millstead wound up on the mound for the Buffs and sent the Spudders down in order in the last of the eighth.

The last Buff tally was a gift. Bailey drew a life that got him to second base when Adams heaved his grounder away. Blades walked. Whiteman hit to White who engineered a double play that got two out of the way but enabled Bailey to reach third. He scored from that station on Bischoff's passed ball. Josefson drew a pass. Doyle ended the game with a fly to Bescher.

The visitors rallied in the ninth but fell one short of tying the score when Hoffman made a great stop on a grounder just back of second and threw the runner out at first, retiring the side. Score

Jackson Shines On Harlem Night Life Circuit Now

By NEA Service.

NEW YORK, July 26.—You can't double-cross the public and get away with it.

Two years ago Joe Jackson, star outfielder of the Chicago White Sox, was a big-city hero.

Today, Joe Jackson is eking out a mere pittance, compared to his major league salary, by playing cities too small for even minor league representation.

It was more than "from the big show to the bushes" when Joe Jackson passed out of the majors. Involved in the baseball scandal of 1919, Jackson was one of the players barred from organized baseball.

To use the slang of the stage, Jackson is "doubling in brass" in his new job. In the afternoon he plays ball, whenever his manager is able to dig up a date. In the evening he is a cabaret celebrity.

Jackson is working under a contract which is sponsored by a chap who runs a cabaret at 126th street and 7th avenue in New York. He gets $250 per week, regardless of whether he plays one or seven games. He also gets his "cakes," as Joe refers to his expense money.

Out Harlem way they have made sort of a small-town hero out of Joe. Hero worship is a great thing. So in the evening Joe sits around the cafe. If the natives want to get a close-up they must come in, pay the cover charge and buy some food.

Recently the owner of the cabaret had a poster six feet high and four feet wide, telling how unjustly Jackson had been treated by the powers in baseball. It also extolled his innocence of any wrongdoing in connection with the baseball scandal.

The sign occupied a prominent position in front of the cabaret. It cost a lot of money to get it up. It attracted much attention, as the fellow who wrote it was some word painter. However, it held forth only two days.

Jackson is going big in the small towns. The other day he played for Westwood, N. J., against Hackensack. Westwood hadn't defeated Hackensack in about 25 years. A home run by Jackson with the bases filled and a double with two on turned the trick.

Jackson started playing under the name of Josephs. But now that his identity has become known he is using his right name.

The life of ease has not improved Jackson's physical condition. He has an alderman paunch, and carries about 25 pounds of excess weight, tipping the scales at well over the 200 mark. He says the weight hasn't affected his hitting, but has slowed him up a bit.

SPORT SHOTS by Paul W. Larkin

Fans Fear Bailey.

The fans seem to be worrying more over the game that Bill Bailey will twirl for the Buffs more than the players. They have it all figured out that the Buffs will win that game and no other. Bill holds no terror for the Salmites. He's just a pitcher and they all look alike to the Wichitans. Nobody expects the Spudders to go on winning forever and Bailey may win his game, but it won't be because he is a southpaw, as many are inclined to believe. There was a time when Bailey could go in against the Spudders and win his game without much trouble. When he was beaten by them, it was usually due to poor fielding behind him.

Times Have Changed.

It's different now. Those players who used to be pickin's for Bill have gone to other fields. Only Tanner and Kitchens remain and the latter won't be used against him. The Salmites will have five right handed batters to face him in Bescher, Tanner, Adams, White and Bischoff while southpaws don't bother Summa or Beck. From his showing to date, Weiss is just as effective against port side slants as any other, too. But, as was stated, Bailey may win his game. It's not a foregone conclusion by any means, however.

Choose One.

Wonder how many fans realize that a couple of $10,000 beauties are playing shortstop at Athletic park now. Look 'em over and take your pick—Ray Blades or Earl Adams.

Somewhat Superstitious.

Walter Salm is taking no chances on breaking his winning streak. He refused to allow a photographer to take a picture of the club Tuesday. "Wait until we lose one," was his answer to the photographer's request.

St. Louis Fans Rightly Peeved.

St. Louis fans are highly incensed over the deal made by the Yanks and Red Sox whereby the former obtained Joe Dugan. They have every right in the world to feel as they do, and the Yanks lost many supporters when they took on Dugan. A rule will doubtless be made at the next meeting of the moguls to prevent a recurrence of such deals. Some such rule should be made to prevent the "moneyed" clubs from annexing a championship title when another club has risen to the top solely through merit. The almighty dollar gave the boxing game a black eye from which it has never fully recovered and baseball is headed in the same direction. When baseball ceases to be a sport and the dollar rather than the game is the goal, there won't be any attendance records shattered. It's bad enough now. A step in the other direction would prove beneficial.

McAbee Going Well.

"Lefty" McAbee, the local twirler, who was tried out by the Spudders and sent to Abilene has been pitching great ball for the Eagles, but hasn't had much luck. He lost his last start Tuesday 4 to 1 though he allowed only three hits. He held the opposition hitless until the seventh when two scratch hits and a brace of errors beat him.

Benny Leonard should find more real opposition in Thursday night's bout with Lew Tendler than he has had since winning the lightweight title. It will be Benny's first real grudge fight. The two lightweights have little love for each other and there will be plenty of venom in each blow struck. Benny claims he will dispose of his opponent before the seventh round. There are many who believe otherwise. The champion will undoubtedly win, but he'll know that he's been in a fight unless all signs fail.

LEONARD BELIEVES HE'S IN TOP FORM

Champion Has Trained Faithfully as Three Battered Sparring Partners Will Testify

BUDD LAKE, N. J., July 26.—Lightweight champion Benny Leonard laid aside his practice gloves last night and went to sleep with the conviction that his two weeks of intensive training have put him at the pinnacle of his form.

Rain which fell nearly all day disarranged his training schedule and he planned a light workout tomorrow. He will make a short road run Thursday morning.

Leonard and his trainers were enthusiastic over the accurate hitting he had shown in his sparring matches. The three battered sparring partners, distressed despite the leather guards that protected their heads, garrulously attested the drive behind the champion's punches. What expert criticism has been advanced about the showing Leonard has made in his training bout here centers on his foot work, once universally acknowledged as the cleverest to be seen. Leonard believes this criticism to be an exaggeration, but he takes special exercises after each bout to limber his leg muscles.

TENDLER POLISHING UP FOR LEONARD BATTLE

DELANCO, N. J., July 26.—A bit of polishing up today and Lew Tendler, Philadelphia challenger, will be in tip top shape for what he hopes will be a victory over Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, in their world's title bout in Jersey City tomorrow night.

The only exercise he planned for today was some strenuous tapping of the punching bag to keep limbered up.

FIRST STRETCH OF HENRIETTA ROAD OPEN TO TRAFFIC

County Engineer J M Isbell announced Wednesday that the Clay county road will be open to traffic early Thursday morning, that is that portion from the county line to the Denver railroad tracks This stretch of the pavement was placed first and has cured a sufficient amount of time to permit the traveling public to use it.

The remainder of the road into the city has been blocked from traffic and the engineer is asking people to use the detour.

In leaving the city people are asked to take the route past the Denver stock pens, which will lead them to the pavement near the Denver tank

ASKS COURT TO TAKE SON AWAY FROM HIS FATHER

Mrs. America E. Hatcher, in a habeas corpus suit, brought in the 30th district court Wednesday morning asks the court to compel Marvin E. Hatcher, her divorced husband, to surrender a son Leslie Carlton Hatcher

The plaintiff alleges in her petition that by virtue of a judgment entered in the 78th district court on February 26, 1919, she was awarded the care and custody of the son, but that the defendant is now illegally restraining the son

Judge Wilson ordered service procured on the defendant and set the case down for hearing for Saturday morning July 29 The order carried with it the command to the defendant to have the son in court before him at that time.

GRILLING CAPTAIVES IN MINE WAR'S WAKE

This picture by Dorman shows constables examining miners round up in mountain raids to determine whether or not they shall be held. Inset, Sheriff Thomas Duval is king the place of his father, Sheriff Harding Duval, slain in the Cliftonville battle.

By BOB DORMAN
(Copyright 1922 by NLA Service)

AVELLA, PA, July 26—They're mopping up in the war zone of the West Virginia panhandle

I have just come back from a night raid made by Pennsylvania state police against the warring coal miners

They are cooperating with West Virginia officials.

"The fear of law" is being put into the hills hereabouts Tears of women and the blood of men are spilled in the dramatic aftermath of the battle at Cliftonville, W Va where five insurgent miners were killed, three more probably burned to death and Sheriff Harding Duval of Brooks county slain

Day and night the hills are combed by the constabularies of two states and by roving bands of deputy sheriffs Of the latter the most relentless is young Thomas Duval, 24 year old son of the slain sheriff, who has succeeded him in office He is out to avenge his father

Dorman First in War Zone.

I was the first newspaper man permitted to penetrate the war zone Iwas let into the secret of a forthcoming night raid Discarding their horses 20 Pennsylvania troopers—relentless men who looked hard and haggard from a week of sleepless nights—gathered in the dark under command of Sergeant J A Goslein

Motor cars carried them All were armed

They kept off the main roads racing recklessly over rutty mountain trails in the darkness close to the West Virginia line

The police were out—as they are nightly—to mop up to seize the ringleaders of the raiding party of 600 strikers who marched over the line July 17 and staged the bloody battle of Cliftonville

Many Miners Forced to Fight.

A trooper said to me

"Three fourths of them didn't want to go Extremists with guns drove them to it Many sneaked away in the dark"

I saw a paper in the sergeant's hand, a list of many names I found these raids are progressive affairs—from those first arrested names of others were obtained This mopping up" will go on for weeks

Some miles from a mining camp the raiders left the machines A skirmish line was formed, circling and spreading as it advanced At the "zero hour" the troopers moved forward

I saw shadowy forms in the dark as the columns arms swept on Every man encountered was driven before the tightening web

White faced prisoners caught in the net, are brought forth singly

"Your name?" barks a trooper

A quick glance at the paper as it is given

"Get over to one side" the trooper orders if the name is not on the list. If it is there—

"Into that machine" the man is ordered Cars have been brought up, ready to take the prisoners to Wellsburg jail And from there—because Wellsburg is violently nonunion and threats of lynching have been heard—on to Wheeling

I saw the people of the poor little town gathering about—women and children routed from their beds.

Troopers Push Way Into Homes.

Troopers ruthlessly push their way into houses Search warrants are superfluous If demanded—and this rarely—any scrap of paper will do for many cannot read or write So the search goes on

I watched one group. Barefooted women, some with anger marking their faces, more with dumb questioning looks, stood there And wide eyed children many crying noisily because they saw their mothers' tears clung to the skirts of the women

Babies in arms some ragged and all red eyed, wailed while women pleaded with troopers

Guns were but rarely used I saw these men flee over a hill but a shot above their heads stopped them Mostly it was the growing fear of the "black horsemen—modernly equipped with motor cars now—that checked resistance

TRAGEDY

This typical mountain woman weeps as her husband is taken away by constables charged with complicity in the mine war. Picture by Dorman.

MAN HELD FOR ASSAULT BELIEVED TO BE INSANE

Judge Marrs in police court Wednesday morning ordered one prisoner turned over to the county authorities The man was arrested Tuesday for fighting with an iron pipe He was said to have hit Tom O'Neill, aged crossing watchman, with this pipe

It is believed that the man is mentally unbalanced He will be given an examination and if found insane will be sent to an asylum

TWO NEGROES GET OUT BUT ONLY ONE MAKES HIS ESCAPE

Two negro prisoners of the county jail got out of jail at noon Wednesday but only one made good his escape The other one was captured three blocks from the jail while on his way to the river and as far as officers know the other one is still running

Wallace Slaughter who is charged with theft over fifty dollars was run down by several men who joined the officers in the chase Willie Vaughn, commonly known as Detroit made his escape He was serving time after pleading guilty to swindling under $50 He had but six more days to serve

The prisoners got out into the run way by means of the hole in one of the cells for which parts were ordered over a month ago A steel bar on an outside window which had been cut off at the same time the other damage was done afforded the negroes a chance to break loose the screen

From the window the two jumped to the roof of the kitchen and from there to the ground They were discovered just as they turned the corner on Austin street

Your Gas Supply

The picture shows three pipe lines crossing the Brazos River. They are a part of the provision of the natural gas supply for you.

Over hills and into valleys—thru rock and soil—under streams, across streams and over streams—at the bottom of the rivers and in bridges over the rivers, these lines continue from the wells to your city gates.

They represent one of the most complete gas systems in the United States, a system that has been improved and worked upon until it is equal to the demands you make upon it for gas at any time.

Preparedness Essential

Natural gas service is unlike anything else from the fact that there is no way of estimating beforehand the supply that will be needed. A change in the weather means a tremendous increase on the lines, and you want the gas especially when everybody else wants it, consequently facilities must be provided for an enormous peak load, four or five times the ordinary consumption that is used a few days each winter.

To prepare for this, pipe line capacity must be enormous, compressor stations must be provided to transport the gas, and every other facility must be ready to give you a full supply when you want it.

TIMES DAILY MARKETS

COTTON MARKET.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, July 26.—The failure of Liverpool to respond to the sharp turn in the market late yesterday was a signal for a heavy selling movement in cotton this morning under which prices sustained another severe shock. Opening barely steady at 13 to 17 points net decline, the market met pressure from New Orleans, Wall street, wire houses and the south, and in the early trading broke to 21.14 for October and 21.08 for December, representing net losses of 28 to 37 points. Japanese interests and Liverpool houses were the best buyers on the break. A less favorable interpretation of the labor news checked outside business and increased the bearish feeling among local traders.

Later selling carried October off to 20.99 and December to 20.90, where an active demand was encountered from shorts and commission houses. This was based on dry weather complaints from Texas and reports of increasing boll weevil activity in the eastern belt, and eventually brought the market into a very strong position with active months selling back almost to last night's close and about 40 points above the forenoon low levels.

Scattered offerings and some little hedge selling gave the market a rather soft undertone in the late trading and at 12:10 o'clock prices were 21 to 25 points under the finals of yesterday with October off to 20.70.

Reactions in the afternoon due to southern selling and the bearish strike news weakened October to 21.12 or about 30 points from the top. Slight rallies followed but the market showed little stability owing to the absence of public buying interest.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, July 26.—Poor cables caused a lower opening in the cotton market today and a private bureau report on the condition of the growing crop of 74.9 per cent of normal against the same percentage a month ago, indicating a yield of 12,200,000 bales against 11,600,000 a month ago caused continued selling. In the first hour of business prices lost 42 to 47 points carrying October off to 20.78.

The weekly crop reports from the government were no better than expected but were completely offset by the highly unfavorable tone of private reports from Texas and Oklahoma, where it was claimed the crop was showing rapid deterioration under continued high temperatures and dry weather. In the trading up to 11 o'clock October was carried up to 20.92 at which level the list was 3 points down to 3 points up compared with the final prices of yesterday.

Cotton closed steady at net declines of 26 to 33 points.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE

CHICAGO, July 26.—Indications of continued active demand from export firms gave firmness to the wheat market today during the early dealings. At first, however, liberal receipts here and favorable weather northwest led to a transient downturn in prices. No marked effect from the emergency orders in reference to railroad shipments was apparent. The opening, which ranged from ½c lower to a gain of ¼c, with September $1.07 to $1.07½ and December $1.09¼, was followed by an upturn all around to slightly above yesterday's finish.

New export business today was estimated at 1,000,000 bushels. The bullish influence of export demand, however, appeared to wane after midday, and under renewed hedging sales the market reacted. Prices closed unsettled ⅛c net lower to ½c advance, with September $1.07 to $1.07¼ and December $1.09⅛ to $1.09¼.

Corn and oats were firm with wheat. After opening ⅛c off to ¼c advance, September 62⅞ to 62⅝c, the corn market held near initial figures.

Subsequently offerings from the country increased and the market closed weak, ⅛c to ¼c net lower, with September 61⅞ to 61½.

Oats started ⅛c off to ⅛c up, September 33⅞ to 33⅛c and later hardened a trifle.

Lower quotations on hogs depressed provisions.

KELL IS PRINCIPAL SPEAKER TUESDAY AT DALLAS MEETING

Frank Kell returned Wednesday morning from Dallas where at noon Tuesday he addressed a meeting of 500 business men on the railroad situation. Resolutions were adopted by the meeting commending Governor Neffs stand in the Denison shopmen and calling for adequate protection for men who take strikers places.

The Dallas News of Wednesday reports Mr Kell's address as follows

Frank Kell of Wichita Falls who was the principal speaker of the occasion bitterly assailed the agitators in the labor disturbances which he characterized as "not behind but just in front of the wheels of their work in struggling for better working conditions and wages

"It is up to you and other gatherings of business men throughout the country to meet and remove the painful legislation which has recently brought about such as he said

"While of course we have given the situation careful and prayerful study it is one of the most serious emergencies that has arisen since the war

"When the war threatened we knew whose interest was the interest of the people and the government rallied to the cause and we won out Today there is that same call for the people who want to see the United States continue its freedom and growth to get the fight and see that something is done that will give our citizenship the right to work where they want to and to work with protection and freedom of movement

"The farmers are hit harder by the strike situation than most any other class They must, or at least will remain by their farms and it is for the business men to step into the breach and effect a sacrificing of our principles he declared

That the meeting was not primarily to stop the strike but rather to lay plans which will in the future make such tieups of commerce and periods of warfare impossible was declared by Mr Kell as the reason for the solemn gathering

I am not opposed to organized labor said Mr Kell "Instead I loyally uphold it There are two classes of men in organized labor The first and the greater majority are men of high character and reputation who are as far removed from these dastardly acts of violence as are you men

Men would not now be perpetrating their crimes were they not cajoled and intimidated by the second and minority class, the radical who cares not for the cost or result of his activities

The horde of radicals does not depresent organized labor they do not represent or uphold the government they are in the ranks for themselves and what they can get out of it'

Reciting the various strikes that have caused so great losses in America he told of the strike of the Missouri and North Arkansas railroad He described the character of the agitators who fled in haste and fear when a group of the men from the hills came down to take a hand in the matter and see that the trains were operated

The inestimable value of men of nerve and vision was emphasized as he told how a Presbyterian minister rather than Gov Hansen of Seattle was responsible for the settlement of the strike in 1919

The minister had secured information on each of the fifteen strike agitators and when they presented their ultimatum he faced them like a game soldier and literally restrained the mayor and his advisors from meeting their impossible demands

That is the man we need now' said Mr Kell There are thousands of them in Texas—and they are coming out in a definite stand and show the world that Texans have the nerve to stand for and demand what is right

Unless the primary law is repealed I fear that we shall be often confronted with such similar situations for under the present form of election we are not securing the best men for congress And any number of them will not stand solidly for the principles that are paramount today

PERFORMANCE PROVES SAVAGE TIRES Are BUILT TO EXCEL

IN SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH

In common with everyone else who visits Salt Lake City Little Heap trade character of The Spreckels Savage Tire Company, is interested in the magnificent Mormon Temple

This series depicts the performance of Savage Tires in different localities. We do not cite or endeavor to show isolated cases of exceptional performance—almost any tire company can do that. We have endeavored, rather, to reflect a true condition, showing the very consistent and general satisfaction Savage Tires are giving under every type of service in each section of the country in which they are operating

Tires in Salt Lake and adjacent territory can be put to two extreme types of service which, collectively, will demonstrate conclusively whether or not those tires are of a construction and calibre that will render satisfactory service under more normal conditions in this same territory

In this city and immediate vicinity, where the greater part of tire mileage is on pavement, no severer test can be given a tire than to put it on the rear wheel of a truck doing general hauling service. If it "stands up" under that—you may be certain it will give satisfactory city service.

In the territory, general use around the mines will clearly determine whether or not a tire has the ability to withstand extreme hard wear.

The following performance data taken from certified records in our general office files shows the remarkably consistent service Savage tires are giving in this territory.

City Commercial Service

Placed opposite other makes of tires, Savage Cords have given continuous service for more than eight months on one of your largest transfer and storage company's vans. These tires have been over every description of road, including frozen ruts, heavy mud, steep grades, and other conditions which have put them to the severest test

Where conditions make the use of chains essential the non-skid features of the Savage Cord have reduced this necessity to a minimum In this service, to date, Savage Cords are showing very little wear while competing makes put on at the same time are badly chipped and show such signs of distress as separation. As a result of this comparison, this firm is now standardizing on Savage.

Territorial Runs

Wearing out two machines and driving 36,400 miles in a third car, a driver covering roads of Big Cottonwood Canyon up to Cardiff Mine and around the mines of Pioche, Nevada, has kept a detailed mileage record on sixteen different makes of tires used In this service Savage tires have averaged 50% better mileage than received from the fifteen other makes used.

The Reason

Tire men and motorists familiar with tire construction have found in the Savage Cord, aside from pleasing appearance and design, seventeen outstanding constructional features that make this product the wonderful tire it is Other good makes of tires, to be sure, use one or more of the features enumerated for our product, but the Savage Cord is the only tire we know of that begins to embody them all ¶ Almost any tire will give satisfactory service under ideal conditions Some makes will even render satisfactory service under certain adverse conditions. Certain makes of tires will perform best on long drives over pavements, other makes will show to better advantage on dirt highways—and so it goes.

¶ Our object has been to build Savage Tires to perform equally well under every condition—on the short haul of the heavily ladened commercial car, on the heated roads of the sandy desert, over mud and stones of the land of forest or the broad dirt highways of the plains.

¶ That we have accomplished our purpose is evident from the results users of Savage Tires are getting—everywhere
